

David Fletcher, 82, passed away February 19, 2008 at Bozeman Deaconess Hospital. He was born May 17, 1925 in Whittier, California to Homer and Elizabeth (Hawn) Fletcher.

As soon as he graduated from Whittier High School, he joined the Army Air Corps to train as a pilot. He did see some duty overseas at the close of World War II.

After his military discharge, he worked for awhile in Alaska. He moved to Denver to attend the University of Denver, graduating with a Civil Engineering degree in 1952. He moved to San Diego, California to work for Convair Aeronautics. This company later became a part of General Dynamics.

Throughout his life he enjoyed golf, skiing and photography although his major interests were in aviation and automobiles.

He is survived by his sister, Martha Weaver, of Bozeman. Also surviving are a niece, Ann Weaver and her son and daughter, a nephew, Richard (Rachel) Weaver and their three sons; and two cousins in California.

No services have been planned.
