

Gene David Biggers, 82, born October 12, 1926, in Emmett, Idaho, to Charles Elvis Biggers & Alice Minervia (Howe) Biggers, died March 27, 2009, in Bozeman, Montana, surrounded by his family.

Dear Dad,

Today you returned home to the loving arms of your Heavenly Father. We know that mom, your parents, brothers and others who have gone before were there to welcome you with broad smiles and happy hearts. They have all missed you, as we will miss you now.

We, your family, would like you to know how much you mean to all of us. You have given each of us such a wonderful example of what a loving, faithful husband and father should be. You taught us young, the meaning of hard work and determination, and it has served us well all our lives.

Dad, you and mom were wonderful parents. Thank you for also teaching us how to have fun. We loved the camping and snowmobiling trips. We each had the best childhood boys could ever want growing up in the woods, working side-by-side with you and mom. These memories will stay with us for the rest of our lives.

The best way to describe what a wonderful father you were may be to look at each of your four sons; we inherited our finest qualities from you. Dad, Dan Eugene is a gentle giant, kind, softhearted, hard working, honest and brave. Corey David is the entrepreneur, as you were. He is driven, always improving himself and all around him, dedicated, compassionate, and very generous. He'd give the shirt off his back to a total stranger. Brian Kelly is passionate, fearless, loyal and tenacious. He loves his family with every fiber of his being. Brett Alien is thoughtful, considerate, and easy going. He is totally non-judgmental and sees everyone he meets as his equal.

Wherever we have travelled in life, we have met individuals who knew you. They each say the same thing, "Gene Biggers is a man of honesty and integrity. He is fair-minded and generous, he always goes the extra mile, usually an extra ten miles." We have always been proud that you are our Dad.

Dad, your love and devotion to Mom was legendary; you never, ever gave up on her. She loved you as we do, with all her heart. Your daughters-in-law; Jenny (Dan), Jeannie (Corey) and Trudie (Brian) loved your quiet, tender devotion to Mom as they have all experienced the same love from their husbands.

Your grandchildren; Lavender (Ben) Biggers Hartmann, Jesse, Jacob (Ashley), MacAryn, Landon (Lacey), Olivia, Andrew and Matthew Biggers will always remember you playing & fishing with them.

Your great-grandsons; Hunter Hartmann & Hayden Biggers will remember you and mom when their grandfathers tell them stories of their own boyhoods.

You and Mom keep the home fires burning in the cabin; and we will all be home soon!

Love,

Your Family
