

Doris Spoonemore Rowe left her earthly bounds in Bozeman, Montana on June 14, 2007. She was born in Toston, Montana on January 30, 1920 to parents Walter and Jeanne (White) Spoonemore.

She attended grade school in Maudlow, Montana, high school in Manhattan, Montana, and graduated from Three Forks High School. She attended Montana State Normal College in Dillon, Montana and graduated in 1940. She later taught school in Norris, Three Forks, Browning and Deer Lodge. She did some substituting in the Bozeman Schools.

She married George B. Rowe, son of George Blose and Ella (Vincent) Rowe in Livingston, Montana in 1944. They lived in Florida for a year while George was in the Air Force. They returned to Norris, Montana to the Rowe Brothers Ranch in 1945. They had three daughters, Linda (Don) Breeden of Bozeman; Georgene (Tom) Carruthers of Casa Grande, AZ; and Diane Brandenburg of Bozeman. She was also blessed with six grandchildren, DeAnne, Teri, Jennifer, Samantha, Justin and Braxton, and with five great-grandchildren, Sierra, Payton, Spencer, Bailey and Cody.

They moved to Bozeman in 1957 after the sale of the ranch to Montana State University. They started going to Yuma as winter visitors in 1982, then moved there in 1994. They returned to Bozeman in 2005.

Doris loved to volunteer and did so for Campfire as a counselor and also at church camp. She belonged to Eastern Star and DAR. She loved swimming, ballroom dancing and playing Bridge. She had a great interest in Genealogy and Archeology.

She was preceded in death by her parents, brother, Dick, and sister, Veda.

Doris is survived by her husband, children, grandchildren, and by a brother, Wayne, who resides in Superior, Wisconsin.

Doris danced every chance she had and her loving family and friends are comforted knowing she will dance her way into Heaven. Her love was everlasting and constantly grew, and she will be truly missed.

At her request, no services will be held. Arrangements were in the care of Dokken-Nelson Funeral Service.
